The STRATEGIC 50/50 STRATEGY (CREATION DATE 09/30/07) has a target allocation concentrated in 50% Asian and emerging market equity funds and 50% in global hard asset funds. This strategy uses a ranking system to select a CONCENTRATED portfolio of highly ranked Asian and Emerging Market funds, in terms of relative strength and funds that tend to profit from either rising or falling global hard assets or currencies, or both. A complete list and description of all firm composites are available upon request.

The minimum portfolio size to open an account is $75,000. Effective October 2007, ETF strategy accounts that are $20,000 or less will be removed from the composite. The Benchmark is 100% S&P 500 Index with dividends to match the target allocation of equity funds and bond funds for this Strategy. The S&P 500 Index with dividends ("the Index") is a leading indicator of U.S. equities, reflecting the risk and return characteristics of the broader large cap universe on an on-going basis. The volatility of the Index may be materially different from that of the performance composite. The Strategic 50/50 Blended Benchmark was created on 3/31/09 in order to provide an additional perspective in which to compare the composite's performance. The benchmark is based on a weighted combination of 33% MSCI Emerging Markets, 17% MSCI EAFE, 25% CRBI Reuters Continuous Commodity Index, and 25% Rogers-VanEck Global Hard Asset Producers Composite Index (added to the benchmark upon the index creation date of 6/16/08) and may be realigned monthly. Additional information on the Strategic 50/50 Blended Benchmark is available upon request. The dispersion measure is the asset-weighted standard deviation of accounts in the composite for the entire year. Indices are unmanaged and investors cannot invest in an index directly.

The Firm's maximum management fee is 2.5%. Fees may be subject to negotiation where special circumstances warrant. The percentage of non-fee paying accounts in this strategy for 2008-2010 are less than 1%. Net of fees returns are calculated net of management fees (bundled fee accounts use maximum allowable fee), transaction costs, gross of custodian fees and withholding taxes. Tax withholding on ADR dividends and capital gains are taken at the time of the dividend payment. The maximum allowable Bundled Fee amounts can include trading fees, manager fees, advisor fees, custodial fees, clearing fees, admin fees, and SEC fees. The percentage of AUM that is comprised of bundled fees was less than 1% in 2009 & 2010 and 0% in 2007-2008. Effective 12/31/08 and 1/31/09, we discovered a material error for 2007 performance return and this presentation has been updated appropriately.
